Herd Management

With the onset of spring we look forward to the 2026 season from a distance, Thoughts of the deer herd that are the basis of the coming season. The number of new fawns as well as the equality of Bucks and Does. A proper Herd Analysis will give the land owner / hunter the information and data to make sound decisions. Locations of bedding, water, stand locations, access routes can help determine what the coming seasons plans are. By getting a full report and habitat recommendations will increase the viability of the herd. Knowledge of the age and class of the Bucks will benefit the hunter as to what animals are cull and which should be left to build the herd. Use of Non-Invasive Data Driven Wildlife Management tools ensure low stress acquisition of information.
